Secretary General,

September 2013
 Nicaragua's submission of extensive evidence regarding the maritime boundary between Nicaragua and Costa Rica in the Caribbean Sea, including the 1992 Green Island case of the ICJ and the 1986-1988 maritime boundary case of the ICJ, was made in compliance with Article 17 of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea. As Nicaragua observes in the Executive Summary of its Submission, Article 17 of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea provides that the submission of evidence is made without prejudice to the question of the delimitation of the maritime boundary.

In light of the above it is evident that Nicaragua's compliance with its international obligations as a state party to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child is
