

The Territorial Sea Law, No. 45 of 1964

The House of Representatives enacts as follows:

Short title

1. This Law may be cited as the Territorial Waters Law, 1964.

Interpretation

2. In this Law, unless the context otherwise requires:

"territorial sea" means such part of the sea touching upon the shore of the Republic as is considered part of its territory as is subject to the sovereignty of the Republic.

Breadth of the territorial sea

3. Notwithstanding the provisions of any other Law, the territorial sea of the Republic extends to a distance of twelve miles from the shore of the Republic measured from the low-water mark.
